

Course: Leadership in Contemporary Business Environment

Semester	Duration	Course character	Workload	Credit Points	Examination form
	International Week	Elective	90 h (30 h contact study 60 h self-study)	3	Project Presentation

Course coordinator

Prerequisites

None

Description of the course

This course explores and seeks to draw attention to the role of leadership in addressing contemporary work place and organizational issues. It challenges students to the tools of effective leadership communication, team building, decision making and problem solving. Applying a variety of teaching methods, students will have fun in understanding these essential elements of leadership and engage in practical ways of leading. Students should, at the end of the course be able to demonstrate these key leadership abilities.

Competency aims

- Understand Contemporary Leadership Concepts and Theories
- Develop Communication and Team-Building Skills
- Learn to Manage Conflicts and Navigate Intercultural Differences
- Practice Decision-Making and Problem Solving
- Apply Leadership Concepts in Practice

Course components

- Introduction to Leadership
- Communication and Intercultural Leadership
- Conflict Resolution and Decision-Making
- Ethical Leadership and Values
- Leadership Project Presentation

References

Gold, J., Thorpe, R., & Mumford A., (2015), Leadership and Management Development; 5th Edition. London: Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development (CIPD)

Northouse, P. (2016) Leadership: Theory and Practice (7th Edition), Londo

Lecturer	Course language	Usability in ongoing studies / other studies
----------	-----------------	--

Dr Idorenyin Etokakpan English