Prerequisites

Description of the Course

In the Consumer Behavior course, the students will have a broad perspective about consumer behavior in general, and about the analysis of consumption habits as a fundamental basis to take marketing decisions. At the same time, students will be able to apply concepts and theories from anthropology, psychology and sociology to study the consumer behavior in real cases.

Course Components

- Readings. Some readings (cases or articles) about Distribution and Communication Policy topics will be assigned to the students to read them at home to be later discussed in class.
- Attendance and participation: Attendance and participation in class are strongly recommended. It is important to apply every day the knowledge acquired during the past classes and comment the readings in group to be able to understand in a better way the course.
- Exam: The exam will be held during the examination period at the end of the semester. The date will be determined by the examination board. The time allowed is 90 minutes. The exam will be based on the materials given by the professor and discussed in class. It may include multiple choice questions and true or false statements, short case studies, etc. The exam contributes 100% of the final grade of the course.

In order to receive a passing grade for the course, students must obtain at least 50% of the total points possible.

Preparation For and Participation in Class

Although a continuous participation from the students along the course is expected; it is important that when readings are assigned, students read them to be able to take part in the class discussion.
