

Lifelong learning at universities: a training programme for non-traditional students

Project management: Prof. Dr. Martina Hasseler/ Prof. Dr. Ludger Batzdorfer

Summary: The aim of this project is to develop and trial a training programme for non-traditional target groups at the Faculty of Public Health Services. The training programme is intended to strengthen and promote the potential of the non-traditional target group. In addition, it is to be made possible for the target group to acquire key skills, and in particular personal skills, so as to dismantle barriers to higher education and to promote the success in the latter.

Funding: State-level funding European Regional Development Fund

Duration: 2017 – 2019

Funding amount: 224.008 €

Organisational unit: Faculty of Public Health Services

Research areas: Research on Societal Participation and Health Services
Research

Salzgitter

Suderburg

Wolfenbüttel

Wolfsburg